Sixth Sunday after Pentecost – In the Gospel today the disciples are sent by Jesus. There are three clear characteristics of the mission on which they are sent. The first is ‘simplicity’, the disciples do not need elaborate tools and state of the art technology, they are called to travel lightly, simply. The second is ‘peace’, the disciples mission is a mission of bringing peace. Thirdly the disciples are to give and receive ‘hospitality’. In the act of living simply, being bearers of peace and giving and receiving hospitality the kingdom of God comes near, the kingdom reality is realized in ‘everydayness’ of life as well as in the ‘time to come’.

- Pray that you may be motivated by simplicity, peace and hospitality in mission so that the Kingdom of God may be realised in your context.
- Give thanks for the sterling work of ABM’s Auxiliary as it celebrates its centenary this month.

CHERISHING THE 'GOD MOMENTS'

If you have never stayed awake to hear the courageous song of one small bird breaking into the stillness of night, consider it. If you haven't sat down lately with a cup of tea and simply admired the view, consider doing it. If you worry about rather than cherish the life-lines on your face in the bathroom mirror each day, look again. These are God-moments. Life's daily, God-given moments are full of metaphors, symbols, signs and invitations. But we grow ever more busy and seek external resources for our spiritual journey, and we do not see and hear what is softly placed on the path we walk along. Develop a practice of - maybe - lighting a small candle in places in your home where precious, ordinary things take place - bathing the baby, sharing a meal, or ironing the family's clothes. It is a way of cherishing the God-moments. What is your way?

A rich and spoiled young man walked into a travel agency. He asked the agent, "How about suggestions on places to go?" The agent responded, "How about Hawaii?" "Nah, I go there a lot." "How about the Virgin Islands?" "No, too hot this time of year." "Paris?" "Noppe, went there last year." "London?" she suggested, by now a little irritated. "Noppe, don't like the rain here, so why would I want to go there?" Finally, in exasperation, she spun a globe on her desk and said, "You pick a spot and I'll get you there!" Looking over the spinning globe, the fellow finally said, "Is this all you've got?"

A man visiting a friend in the hospital couldn't help noticing that the nurses wore a badge with an apple on it. He asked one of the nurses what the badge meant.

"Nothing," she said with a smile. "It's just to keep the doctors away."
